CHAPTER 1

GENERAL

1-1. Purpose. This regulation establishes the Foreign Area Specialty (FAS) Program for the identification, training, and utilization of officers to meet current and anticipated requirements of the Department of the Army and the Department of Defense for officers with detailed knowledge of foreign areas.

1-2. Scope. This program provides a special career field for officers who are skilled in military matters and trained in the cultural and environmental aspects of a particular geographical area and its people.

1-3. Explanation of terms. a. Foreign area specialist is an officer who possesses the comprehensive, up-to-date knowledge of the language, military services, geography, history, economics, politics, culture, and sociology of a specific foreign country or area required to make sound decisions and estimates concerning U.S. military activities related to his area of specialization. He must be able to analyze military matters as they are affected by the political, economic, and sociological conditions of the area.

b. FAS position is one which requires an officer with expertise in a specific foreign area, its people, their culture, and their language. Such a position must have been validated as requiring a graduate degree under the provisions of AR 621-108, or have been identified by the Chief of Personnel Operations as appropriate for a utilization tour for a foreign area specialist.

c. Initial utilization (I). Positions designated to be filled by advance degree graduates immediately following completion of training. These positions normally call for officers in the grades of captain through lieutenant colonel.

d. Reutilization (R). Positions recommended for fill by officers who have previously served initial utilization tours or the equivalent thereto. Positions designated for reutilization call for officers in the grades lieutenant colonel and colonel.

1-4. Responsibilities. a. The Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel promulgates policies governing this and other special career programs.

b. The Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence, provides technical assistance to the DCSPER and the Chief of Personnel Operations, in the operation of the program. This includes—

- (4) Nomination of individual officers for program membership.
- (5) Providing the Chief of Personnel Operations with curriculum guidance for graduate students.
- (6) Establishment of a consultant board.
- (7) Managing and budgeting for in-country oversea training of FAS officers.

c. The Chief of Personnel Operations operates the program within broad policy guidance of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Personnel. This includes but is not limited to—

- (1) Preparing and staffing the Army regulation for this program.
- (2) Selecting program members.
- (3) Awarding MOS prefix F and an appropriate additional skill indicator (ASI) to officers who successfully complete an FAS training program or who are designated foreign area specialists under the provisions of paragraph 1-6*d*.
- (4) Exercising career development and assignment jurisdiction over program members, other than officers of the Judge Advocate General's Corps or Army Medical Department. Assignments will be in accordance with FAS program career pattern in DA Pam 600-3 and this regulation.
- (5) Administratively maintaining the positions list for the program.

d. The Chief, U.S. Army Personnel Security Group approves all entrants into the program from a security standpoint.

e. Major commanders or commanders who submit officer personnel requisitions direct to Headquarters, Department of the Army, are responsible for—

(2) Be serving in the grade of captain through lieutenant colonel with a minimum of 3 years' basic branch duty, to include duty with troops, and have completed or be scheduled to attend an appropriate branch advanced course. (Troop duty for officers of the technical and administrative services may include either detail with combat arms or duty with troop units of the appropriate technical or administrative service.)

(3) Have the following educational background which may be waived in clearly justifiable cases:

(a) Military schooling. Military schooling appropriate to grade and length of service.

(b) Civil. Baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university and have demonstrated a high level of academic performance.

(5) Have served not more than 12 years of active Federal service on the date of entry into training for which selected.

(6) Not have passed their 37th birthday prior to the date of entry into training.

Additionally, medical examinations of the same scope will be accomplished prior to departure from the United States to enter the oversea phase of training.

(8) Be a U.S. citizen by birth. This prerequisite may be waived on an individual basis by the Chief, U.S. Army Personnel Security Group. Sound healthy family relationships are important attributes of foreign area specialists. Foreign financial interests, foreign investments, and continual excessive personal indebtedness are possible causes for disqualification.

(10) Have no information in Provost Marshal, Intelligence, official military personnel, or medical files which, in the opinion of the Chief, U.S. Army Personnel Security Group, would prevent the granting of a security clearance in accordance with AR 604-5. Additionally, applicant will be subjected to an extensive background investigation.

c. Officers who meet the criteria listed in paragraph 1-5 may be nominated for the program. Anyone in an appropriate position who has knowledge of an officer's qualifications may submit such a nomination by letter direct to the Chief of Personnel Operations, ATTN: OPD, _____, Department of the Army, (Appropriate career branch)

Washington, DC 20315. Headquarters, Department of the Army will afford each officer who has been nominated and found qualified the opportunity to accept or decline the nomination.

d. Designation as foreign area specialist may be accomplished as follows:

(1) Officers desiring to be designated foreign area specialists by virtue of prior training and experience may apply by submitting the documents required in b(5) (a) through (f) above and providing evidence of appropriate training and experience in the area of specialization desired. As a minimum, officers applying under the provisions of this paragraph must—

(a) Be proficient (S3/R3) in the language of the country or area.

(b) Have a master's degree in area studies related to the country or area of specialization, or in another appropriate field such as Political Science or International Relations.

(c) Have served in an appropriate assignment (para 1-8f) within the country or area for a minimum of 18 months.

(2) The Chief of Personnel Operations will, on an individual case basis, determine if the applicant's qualifications warrant acceptance. He will also determine what additional training, CONUS or in-country, may be required.

1-7. Entry into program. a. The Chief of Personnel Operations will select officers to participate in the program on a best qualified basis.

b. Program strength ceilings may preclude the selection of some well qualified applicants. In order to minimize any possibility of misunderstanding or injustice to such officers, notice of non-selection will not be made a part of the officer's official military personnel file either in the field or at Headquarters, Department of the Army. Upon receipt of notice of nonselection, it is the responsibility of the individual applicant to have the copy of his application removed from his field military personnel file.

c. Headquarters, Department of the Army will advise applicants of selection or nonselection as soon as final action is completed. Unit personnel officers will enter "Foreign Area Specialist (area) Trainee" in item 15, DA Form 66 (Officer Qualification Record) in accordance with paragraph 51, AR 611-103, for those officers selected for program participation. The "Trainee" annotation will be removed upon completion of training.

1-8. Career development. a. Upon completion of FAS training, officers will be assigned to selected positions where this training may be utilized. Initial utilization tours are normally of 3 years' duration, preferably in the oversea area for which trained.

b. Subsequent development of each officer will be accomplished through increasingly important branch material and staff assignments. After an initial utilization assignment, FAS utilization tours will alternate with basic branch qualifying assignments within the framework of branch career patterns. The objective is to produce fully qualified officers capable of filling both branch and FAS positions. In every assignment action, consideration will be given to overall requirements of the Army, individual preference, and the potential effect of the assignment on the officer's career.

c. Commanders will, consistent with accomplishment of their missions, insure that program members are utilized in consonance with the career development policies outlined in the preceding paragraph, both in initial and subsequent assignments within the command.

d. Officers participating in the program will receive equal consideration with their contemporaries for appropriate command assignments and for attendance at service schools and colleges and at civilian educational institutions.

e. The Office of Personnel Operations will schedule program members for attendance at appropriate courses at Army schools and training activities and other appropriate single-service or joint courses in those cases where attendance is necessary from a position requirement or career development standpoint.

f. Typical assignments in which FAS graduates utilize their special training are in those positions which have been validated under provisions of AR 621-108 to require FAS members; they include—

- (1) MAAG or mission in the area studied.
- (2) U.S. Army attaché or assistant attaché in the area in which specialized.
- (3) Intelligence position in Civil Affairs, Psychological Operations, and Special Forces Units.
- (4) General staff or special staff, Office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Unified Commands, Headquarters, Department of the Army or major subordinate commands.
- (5) Instructor (in area studied) in a service school or college including USMA.
- (6) Intelligence activities, including OACSI and DIA.

1-9. Release from program. a. Officers may be released from the program for any of the following reasons:

(1) Failure to demonstrate the desired progress in development, duty performance, interest, or aptitude.

(2) Other reasons which indicate that further participation in the program is not warranted.

b. Notification of release from the program will be by Department of the Army letter. Unit personnel officers will delete "Foreign Area Specialist (area)" from item 15, DA Form 66 (Officer Qualification Record) in accordance with paragraph 51, AR 611-103.

1-10. Requisitions. a. Requisitions for FAS program members will be submitted in accordance with AR 614-185. Headquarters, Department of the Army will select officers in the program for assignment to validated foreign area specialty positions. If there is no program participant available in the time frame requested, the requisition will be filled by assignment of the best qualified officer available.

b. Requisitions submitted to Headquarters, Department of the Army, for officers to fill FAS positions will include the identifying code numbers assigned to the positions as provided for in paragraph 3-3, AR 621-108.

CHAPTER 2

TRAINING PROGRAM

2-1. General. The FAS training program consists of three phases; language, civil schooling, and in-country training. This training cycle varies in length from 2½ to 4 years depending upon the area studied.

2-2. Language training (Phase I). Language training is normally conducted at the Defense Language Institute (DLI). Training is conducted at civilian institutions in languages not taught at DLI. This phase of training may be omitted for personnel possessing current fluency (S3/R3) in the appropriate language, verified by current Army Language Proficiency Test scores.

2-3. Academic (Phase II). This advanced degree training (9 to 12 months) in area studies is provided at selected United States or oversea universities. The program of instruction includes subjects pertaining to the geography, history, economics, politics, and sociology of the country or area of study and appropriate subjects required by the school's graduate degree program. This phase of training may be omitted for personnel possessing an appropriate graduate degree.

2-4. In-country training (Phase III). The in-country training consists of travel, research, and study in the oversea area of specialization: 36 months for the Arab World; 24 months for Russia in a controlled environment community in West Germany; 18 months for China, Greece, Latin America and Turkey; normally 12 months for all other areas. After three-fourths of this training tour, the student may be reassigned, subject to limitation on PCS moves in one fiscal year, to an on-station utilization tour. The areas in which training is offered and the content and sequence of instruction may be revised as necessary to meet current requirements, university training loads, and budgetary limitations.
